Signs of life?

New projects once again coming before Bethel planning board

It doesn't begin to rival the burst of construction activity in the mid-1980s, but a few stirrings of new life are starting to poke their heads up through the bleak economic wasteland.

Last week the Bethel Planning Board heard preliminary plans for two new commercial projects—a cross-country ski lodge at David Carter's Nordic area in East Bethel, and 11 new guest rooms at the Norseman Inn in Mayville.

The local landscape, of course, is haunted by the ghosts of projects that reached the planning board stage only to fade into oblivion, but the projects proposed last week appear ready to move ahead successfully.

The cross-country ski lodge would be part of a long-term expansion of Carter's successful market and ski-touring center in Welshville.

Last winter Carter set up new trails near his family's farm on the Middle Intervale Road. The move was in part to take advantage of the Bethel area's superior snow cover, but Carter said he has long planned to develop a cross-country ski area on the trails he skied as a child and later as a student at Gould Academy.

"I think there is a great potential for something really positive to happen here," he said.

Carter added that the trails to be served by the new lodge range from low-lying riverside trails that look directly up at Sunday River Skiway's White Heat trail, to trails at the top of Farwell Mountain that offer views across the Newry skiway and on into the White Mountains.

Bethel hearing set on licenses and town-meeting warrant articles

Junkyards, victualers, winter road closings and sewer rules will be discussed Monday

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has scheduled for a public hearing for Monday evening to review a variety of matters ranging from junkyard and victualers licenses, to road closings and sewer, sign and site plan ordinances.

The proposed road closings and ordinance changes will also come before voters at next month's annual town meeting. The licensing matters will not.

Two items to be discussed Monday include proposals by the town planning board to set up a separate sign ordinance for the town and to make a number of amendments to the current site plan review ordinance.

Both proposals were originally set to be discussed at a public hearing tonight, May 15, but the planning board later agreed to have the proposals considered along with the other items at Monday's meeting. (Please see last week's Citizen for a description of these planning board proposals.)

Monday's hearing will also look at two proposed amendments to the town's sewer regulations. The first establishes the procedures to be used for a loan program under which the town will help finance connections to the new water, sewer and storm drain system. The loan program, to be overseen by the selectmen, is intended for the use of property owners who would otherwise be unable to pay for the new connections.

The second sewer-related item involves a number of revisions to the sewer ordinance. Two of the more significant of these are a provision for allowing customers who increase their SPRING'S BRIEF GLORY—Gracing the lawn of Rodney and Carol Jordan of the Flat Road in West Bethel is this pear tree in full bloom. Carol said the tree produces very small, hard pears in the fall and that her grandchildren enjoy playing under it in the summer. She added that she thought the tree had blossomed out better in past years and that she planned to fertilize it this summer.

Russia revisited—

One in a series of occasional articles by Ann Morton

With all the attention that world events have generated recently, it is exciting to be involved in establishing a personal connection between educators and schools in Maine and Leningrad, USSR.

I was part of a five member delegation that was invited to Leningrad to advise and consult with officials there to establish a school guidance program. I represented school counselors in Maine and the other four members of the Maine delegation included three counselor educators from the University of Maine Orono and a former school counselor who made the initial contact with the Soviet educators last June.

Three months of preparation, exchanging information and going through the process of obtaining a visitor's visa were unaffected by Desert Storm, although our friends feared for our safety in proceeding with plans to fly to Leningrad for an eight day visit.

As we checked our luggage through to Leningrad and boarded the initial flight of the trip in Boston in early March, we took deep breaths and said:

"The adventure begins!" With a real sense of excitement and the realization that we were embarking on a momentous and unique educational experience. This feeling stayed with us and intensified throughout our stay in Russia's second largest city.

Our introduction to Russia was the 50-minute flight from Helsinki, Finland to Leningrad on Aeroflot, Russia's only airline. Because our delayed transatlantic Finnair flight necessitated an immediate Aeroflot boarding, we were not surprised that our luggage did not arrive with us.

We were met in Leningrad by our five Russian colleagues who immediately took over to fill out the correct forms

Few candidates file for Bethel offices

With Bethel citizens showing little interest in running for town office this year, it appears that write-in candidates will be called upon to fill two of the four positions up for election at the annual town meeting next month.

As of last week's closing date, only one candidate had filed for the open selectman's position, one for the two school board openings, and none for the post of assessor. All the open positions are for three years.

Norman Putnam has filed for the selectman position currently held by Peter Haines, who is not seeking reelection.

By contrast, five candidates, including Putnam, filed for the two selectmen positions that were open last year at this time.

On the Bethel school board, the terms of directors Cheryl Elliot and Jeri Greenwell are up, but only Elliot has filed for reelection.

Greenwell, a four-year board veteran, said she has not closed off the possibility of running as a write-in candidate, but she hoped to see a new candidate emerge who had more time and fresh energy to devote to the board.

Last year there were three candidates for two open positions.

Also last year, there were three candidates for the two open assessor positions. This year there is one opening and no one has filed for it.

In the absence of candidates who have filed papers for the open positions, Town Clerk Merton Brown said the offices will be filled by the write-in candidates who receive the largest number of accurate ballots.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley speculated that the poor economy may be the underlying reason for fewer people than in the past running for town office. "It's no fun with no money to spend," she said.

State budget cuts stall Andover EMT certification

By BARBARA ADAMS

An upset Fire Chief Ken Dixon appeared before the Andover Board of Selectmen last week to inform them that because of Governor John McKernan's recent freeze on the state's reserve accounts, the town's fifteen volunteers currently undergoing medical technician training will not be tested.

They cannot become valid EMT's, he said, without state certification. Dixon said the news of possibly not being tested hit the EMT's "like a bombshell," after they had been studying so long.

"I don't know how, but they will be tested," he said adamantly. "I have been calling Augusta all day, and have called representatives, congressmen, the Maine Fire Chief Association and everyone else. I got rid of a little frustration, but then I got more."

"The money the town appropriated," he said, "went to CMTC in Auburn for their training. To be licensed they have to be tested by the state for certification, and testers are paid through the state reserve accounts. There is no charge to the town for the testing."

Dixon said that, prior to the freeze, an all-day practical testing had been scheduled for June 8, and a written test for June 10, "lasting a couple of hours."

He described the tests as very difficult.

Selectmen Wayne Delano said, "It seems like an ongoing process. They can't just stop in the middle and not test them, can they?"

Dixon replied, "It is real dirty pool. They have indiscriminately frozen reserve funds. I am soliciting help from anyone I can figure. Hopefully, the Maine Fire Chiefs will help, as they have a Board of Directors meeting in Augusta on Wednesday."

Dixon also told the board, "It hurts us because we're down to the crucial level of EMT's in the town." He agreed that other towns must be having the same problem.

The testing was to take place at the Crescent Park School in Bethel, and Dixon said, 32 people from outside were also to be tested. The people doing the testing, he said, are not state employees, but "come from all over."

"My personal feeling is," he said, "that the rumble running through Augusta will definitely get his (McKernan's) attention, and the funds for people already in the EMT program are going to bust loose. I have been contacting everybody I can think of, because we need all the firing power we can get."

The selectmen suggested they write

School board faces further funding woes

But balks at proposal to trim number of student school days

Facing still further problems with state funds coming into the school district, the SAD #44 school board Monday evening considered, but ultimately rejected, an administration proposal to cut two days from the current school year.

Superintendent Dewaine Craig told the board that the district will receive $8,600 less in state funding than expected when the budget for the current year was established.

One cost-cutting option suggested for covering the shortfall was trimming two student attendance days from the current school calendar. Craig estimated this would save the district

HOT HURLER—Telstar softball pitcher Stacie Kangas has pitched two no hiters this season, and the Rebels are now number one in the Western Maine Class C standings. Stacey has hurled the team to the top of the heap with a win record of 8-2. Coach Jim Lunney said if the girls remain number one in the standings, then all their play-off games will be held at home. The girls' next game is home against Leavitt, Friday May 17 at 4 p.m.

But it's a rebuilding year for Telstar baseball team

With the baseball season half over, the Telstar High School Rebels have yet to win a game. But third year coach Bob Remington said his team is not discouraged by its record, and the boys are hard at work learning fundamentals during what is clearly a rebuilding year.

Remington said the biggest reason

East Bethel farm building destroyed by Friday fire

A 100-by-40-foot storage shed and workshop at the Carter Farm on Middle Intervale Road was leveled by a fire last Friday evening.

The fire apparently resulted from a welding accident.

John Gauthier, an employee of Tim Carter, was welding in the building when he noticed a cushion on fire. After throwing the cushion outside, Gauthier said, he returned to find the building floor on fire.

The building, which was constructed around the turn of the century, was completely engulfed in flames when firemen from Bethel, Newry and Peru arrived. It took firefighters about 30 minutes to contain the blaze.

Bisbee banquet—a good idea, before it crossed the line

With the Ethel Bisbee School in Bethel about to close its doors for the last time, a group of current and former employees of the school are planning a banquet to celebrate the years of joy and work they shared.

A fine idea. We love a party and hope they have a great one. But we also wish they had had the tact, or simple common sense, to keep the party here in the SAD #44, instead of heading off—with their wallets—for the hills of New Hampshire.

The Bethel area is unusually blessed with many fine restaurants, but like much of the rest of the local business base, more than a few are struggling to keep their doors open and their staffs employed—especially now, in the doldrums between skiers and summer people.

Most would jump at the chance to host the Bisbee revelers and their spouses. But they won't have the chance. The party is headed elsewhere.

When something like this happens, it's not just a single local business that loses out. All of us do. Money that is spent in the district stays in the district longer—and while here it continues to circulate, increasing the level of economic activity as it fills paychecks, fuels purchases and pays bills, including school tax bills.

And as for money that leaves the district (and, in this case, the state) . . . well, it's gone, and it's doing all those good things in another community.

The amount of money involved with the Bisbee banquet is not all that great, but it might have met a payroll for a few days. And for some folks that can be crucial.

But the district employees planning the Bisbee bash probably don't think in such terms.

And, after all, why should they? Isn't it their money, their party? And when you come right down to it, isn't all this "economic reality" stuff just something that unenlightened, selfish people grumble about at budget time?

It's certainly not something you want to think about at party time.

From Washington—

From Sen. William Cohen Violence against women

Working at the Rock Hope for Women Project in Newland, Mass. Aston witnesses first hand the acts of violence committed against battered women in her community. And what she sees is not encouraging.

"Our sense is that domestic violence has been increasing," she said. "As the economic times get tougher, you usually see domestic violence and other crimes increasing, and that correlation is holding true."

Aston's observations are verified by some shocking national statistics that show the number of violent crimes against women has risen at an alarming rate, not only over the last several months but for years.

During the last decade, the rape rate has risen four times faster than the national crime rate. Assaults against young women have reached an all-time high—rising 50 percent over the last 15 years. In fact, violent attacks by men against women are the single largest cause of injury to women in this country, more than car accidents, heart attacks or cancer.

In Maine, a woman is raped every 36 hours and domestic assault occurs every three hours.

While part of this increase can be attributed to the fact that violent crimes against women are being reported more often, it is still estimated that less than half of all rapes and even fewer domestic assaults are ever recorded on the police blotter.

The physical and emotional toll on these victims is clearly devastating, and it is often compounded by our law enforcement and judicial systems, which can contribute to the victimization of women through insensitivity, reliance on outmoded stereotypes and failure to protect victims adequately.

Even women who have not been touched directly by violent crime are affected. How many women walk home at night without considering the safest route or without stepping up their pace when they hear footsteps behind them?

Because of this epidemic of violence

From Sen. George Mitchell Affordable health care

All Americans share a concern about the health of their families, from coping with emergency medical situations that arise with our children to planning for the long-term care of an elderly relative. We all want to be able to choose the best quality care available to address these situations.

Unfortunately, the escalating costs of health care mean that cost considerations have become an increasingly significant factor for many American families making decisions about health care.

The American health care system is the best in the world—for those who can afford it. All Americans should have the option to seek quality health care for their families and for themselves. Today, about 37 million people in this country do not have health care coverage, generally because they can't afford the premiums. If we don't address these escalating costs, many more people will be without the necessary health care.

The Senate Finance Committee, of which I am a member, recently held a hearing on the need for health care cost-containment measures as an essential component of our strategy to increase access to health care for all Americans.

At that hearing I stated my belief that we must find a way to bring health care costs under control or we risk adding millions more to the rolls of the uninsured.

Recent statistics reported by the Congressional Budget Office underscore the problem of health care costs. In 1980, 11 percent of the federal budget was spent on health care, while CBO projects that health spending will be nearly 20 percent of federal budget by 1996. Rising health care costs also have had a direct impact on the availability of employer-based coverage. Between 1977 and 1987, the average real premium paid by employers rose from $1,111 to $1,656—or an increase of 49 percent.

Over the last decade, a variety of

Letters to the editor

THE CRUELLEST LOSSES

To the Editor:

T.S. Eliot in his poem "The Waste Land" described April as "the cruellest month." This April was indeed a time of loss and reflection for those who knew Gary Hill and Richard Stevens.

I met Gary on the first day of school in 1968 at Gould Academy. Those were the days when the whole school assembled in what is today the library—the boys on one side, girls on the other. Seats were paired on each side, so one got to know someone in his or her class well. By the lot of the alphabet, I had Gary as a seatmate for my first year at Gould.

From the beginning I was impressed with his interest in so many things; he was witty and I remember laughing at his jokes and antics. He was elected president of the class and I vice president. I don't know if our classmates considered our seating arrangements in their decision or not. In any case, I always found Gary quite a bit of fun, especially the time he played our Latin teacher Miss Buccini in a skit at Gould one evening. I still laugh when I think of how funny Gary was in that role.

Following graduation, I did not see Gary until the early 1980s at one of the Gould alumni days. He had not lost his sense of humor and we laughed as he remembered. When he came to teach at Gould, I saw him more regularly, usually in the post office where we exchanged quips.

When the cancer developed that was to eventually take his life, I was always impressed at how courageous he faced it. He continued to assure me that he would not become a statistic. He would, of course, but his brave struggle would be an inspiration for all of us.

One of my regrets is that I never saw Gary in the classroom, but I am certain from talking with some of his former students and others that he was a memorable teacher. He touched many lives with humor and wisdom, a powerful combination, which will ensure that his legacy will endure for a very long time.

Richard Stevens was master of Alder River Grange when I joined in 1957. The Grange at that time was thriving due in part to his hard work and leadership. In those days before television captivated the American public, many young people in fact, most of the officers in the late 1950s at Alder River were teenagers (a fact that surprised visitors and state officials alike). It is to Richard's credit that young people felt very much at home in the Grange; meetings and programs were interesting and fun.

Family, church, community and the Grange were important to Richard. I knew him best through the Grange. No one more dedicated, loyal and ready to serve than Richard. How well I remember when we were organizing the Grange's 75th anniversary celebration. We did considerable work on the hall and Richard Stevens was, as always, one of our hardest workers. At the 80th and 85th celebrations more work was done about the hall and he was right there as always. Last year we had a cleaning session at the hall and despite our best efforts to keep him from overdoing, he insisted on helping.

I knew things were getting worse for him when he told me early this year that he would not be attending any more Grange meetings. The exertion had become too great.

As I review over thirty years of Grange association with Richard I have many thoughts. He was always there ready to participate. One of my most vivid memories of him was the time he modeled the mini-skirt in our "fashion" show during the 75th anniversary festivities. It was a stellar performance and I still chuckle when I think of it.

Richard knew his Grange degree work and his life reflected the wisdom contained in it. This perhaps is why one can say as he laid his implements down on prayer that in the words of the Grange prayer he "should receive that welcome plaudit, well-done good and faithful servant."

ETHEL BISBEE BANQUET

To the Editor:

We are coming to the end of an era: elementary school children in Bethel will not be at Ethel Bisbee School in the fall.

There are many people on the present SAD #44 staff, and many more in the community who, at one time or another, worked at EBS. We would like to get together to celebrate at the "Ethel Bisbee Banquet" to be held on Friday, May 31 at the Town and Country in Gorham, N.H. Everyone who worked at Ethel Bisbee School and their spouses are invited. Reservations are requested by May 24, and may be called in to EBS at 824-2748.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

To the Editor:

I wish to announce my candidacy for the office of selectman for the Town of Bethel.

A short summary of my background is given below for your consideration. Since my retirement I have been a member of the Reserve Study Committee and an alternate member of the Bethel Planning Board. I have also taught computer application courses for the University of Maine and for Adult Education at Telstar High School.

In other communities prior to moving to Bethel in 1980, I also served as an elected member of a planning board, on several school study and building committees, a scoutmaster, a volunteer fireman and a member and president of a solid waste recycling corporation.

Before I retired, my last position was as vice president of a corporation designing and manufacturing mechanical equipment. I am also a Lt. Col. (Retired) from the Corps of Engineers, US Army Reserve.

My education includes a B.S. degree from the University of Maine in engineering, and M.S. Degree in Management from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y., and other courses in accounting and computer programming from a community college.

I believe that my education, experience, and interest in the community will help me make good and considered judgements while serving the town as a Selectman.

I ask for your vote on election day.

Capt. James Milson, of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department, said in April that the shooting followed a heated argument between the two men.

After the incident Bennett drove himself to the Bethel Emergency Rescue Barn, where two attendants met him and transported him to Stephen's Memorial Hospital.

Police later found a .357 magnum revolver on the North Road near the Maine/New Hampshire border. They suspect the revolver to be the one used in the shooting.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Kilts and bagpipes were much in evidence as the North East Gathering of the Clan MacBean was held on Saturday at the Dr. Moses Mason House.

Following introductions and opening remarks, an early Clan history was presented. Dr. Stanley R. Howe, director, Bethel Historical Society, was the next speaker. He provided an overview of the Bethel Bean's beginning with Jonathan who came to Bethel in the 1700s. Most Bean families were large, he noted, especially in the early days. That is why Bethel today has so many descendants of Jonathan.

"Of course," said Howe, "the best known of those descendants with Bethel connections is the late L.L. Bean, who though born in the neighboring town of Greenwood, spent his formative years in Bethel, where he is listed on the 1880 census."

Many of the early Bean's were farmers, according to Howe; several settled in East Bethel. The corner there was named for Eliphaz, who was very prominent in town affairs and served in the Maine Legislature. In West Bethel there were also several Bean families including Alpheus, who owned mills and large tracts of land. It was he who gave the Union Church building to the Ladies Aid there in the 1890s. "The first woman Cabinet secretary, Frances Perkins, who served 12 years in Franklin D. Roosevelt's administrations was a descendant of the West Bethel Bean's," Howe said.

Following lunch, a Clan MacBean video tour of Scotland narrated by Bean president Donald Knapp was presented. Later in the afternoon Stewart Bean, Maine Convener and Randall H. Bennett, Society Curator of Collections, assisted those with genealogical questions.

A video on Scottish history was held which some of those attending watched while others adjourned to the backyard and heard Blaine Mills, New Hampshire Convener, speak on the history of the tartan and life in the Clan system. Margaret Mills served refreshments and managed the sales table.

Madeleine Henley
Town Manager

FROM THE Bethel Town Office

The Downtown Revitalization Project is beginning to have an impact on our lives. I am getting complaints about dust and calls from worried people about what expenses they will be incurring. Let me summarize what we all know and review what we know we don't know. Possibly this exercise will bring to light some things that we thought we knew but don't.

The Bethel treatment plant was designed by the Maine Department of Environmental Protection in violation of the state's discharge regulations. The town responded by completing major improvements at the plant and searching for the root of the capacity problem. It turns out that enormous amounts of clean water were mixed with the sewage coming in to the plant.

The Downtown Revitalization Project was undertaken to remove the inflow and infiltration (I&I) of unpolluted water from the sanitary sewer system. The sewer lines are so deteriorated that water running under the ground leaks into the pipe. The equally poor condition of the storm drain system, including Sanding Brook, ensures that there will be plenty of water flowing under the ground in the area of the sewer mains. Additionally, many building drains and cellar pumps were dumping into the building sewer lines and hence to the treatment plant.

The project as bid consists of combinations of sanitary sewer, storm drain and water main replacement on Mason, Spring, Philbrook, Main, Elm, High and Summer Streets and the rebuilding of the Sanding Brook from Philbrook to Summer Street. Due to the exceptionally low bid price, the project may be expanded to include Elm and Railroad Streets. Elm Street is the next highest priority in the first part of the I&I Removal Program and Railroad Street is on the Maine Department of Transportation (MDOT) schedule for resurfacing this summer.

The contract specifies the laying of service stubs to the edge of the right-of-way. The reconstruction of services is also a town responsibility. There is no charge for reconstructions. However, if the sewer pipe from your building to the town's right-of-way is not PVC or cast iron, you will need to replace it before you may be reconnected. Also, if your sump pump or building storm drain is draining into your sewer line, you must disconnect that. You must hook into the storm drain system, if available, or discharge into a natural outlet as approved by the Licensed Plumbing Inspector, Sam Timberlake.

The selectmen have offered two methods of helping any property owner incurring costs due to this project. First came the Loan/Grant Program administered by Linda Saunders, and available to anyone in the low or low-moderate income brackets, this program is part of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) awarded to the town. It offers an outright grant of money, which need not be repaid, or a loan at five approximately $2,500 in fuel and in busdriver and secretary salary expenses.

Such a move would not save teachers' salary expenses, Craig said, because the district's teachers are contracted to work 175 student attendance days.

Craig told the board that the state had dropped its mandatory standard of 175 school days to 173 for this year, only.

The majority of the board members who spoke on the issue said that taxpayers had paid for 175 days of school and they should get what they paid for.

The board ultimately voted down the issue. Craig said he would try to trim the remainder of this year's budget in a way that would have minimum impact on students. He said he had not yet looked into the matter fully and had no prediction where the budget will be cut.

In other business Monday evening, the board voted to reschedule discussion relating to the existing school funding formula until the next board meeting, May 27, Memorial Day.

The board also approved three field trips for elementary students. The Woodstock Elementary School fifth-graders will take a day trip to Boston, and the sixth-graders will travel to the Grand Zoo in Quebec on an overnight trip. The Andover Elementary School has scheduled a sixth-grade overnight trip to Old Orchard Beach and Portland.

The board approved a lengthy list of personnel appointments. District nurse Christine Cole's salary was increased by $400 to $22,746 for 180 work days, with any additional days paid at the rate of $136.37 per day. She will also receive 15 days of sick leave per year. The sick leave days are accumulative up to 150 days.

Other personnel approvals were Elizabeth Como and Heather Hill as substitute teachers and Carolyn Brown as substitute custodian.

Telstar High School extra-curricular personnel appointed for the 1991-92 school year were: Robert Remington, head soccer coach; Charles Raymond, assistant soccer coach; Sally Hannon and Gail Wight, field hockey coaches; John Applin, cross-country coach; Carroll Higgins, head boys basketball coach; Barbara Dunham, head girls basketball coach; Robert Remington, ski program director and Nordic ski coach; and Thomas Remington, alpine ski coach.

Telstar Middle School extra-curricular personnel appointed for the 1991-92 school year were Elaine Hutchins, head field hockey coach; Sheri Doen, assistant field hockey coach; Tim O'Connor, head boys basketball coach; Barbara Russell, head girls basketball coach and Tim Kavanagh alpine ski coach.

Team leaders for the middle school were also approved: grade six—William Caddigan, Linda Davis, Wayne Howe and Debra Piccirilli; grade seven—James Lunney; grade eight—Thomas Riley, Jr. and special education—Judith Brown.

David Murphy was appointed to the position of academic standards steering committee coordinator for 1991-92. His current stipend for the position will remain at $5,000.

The following teachers were approved for a second probationary contract: Kathy Acker, Heidi Steele, Edward Stevens and Margaret Sushbury.

Also approved for a continuing contract were Heather Carson, Cynthia Dawson, Jean Gardner, Sharon Higgins, Linda Stowell and Russell Tornrose.

The board accepted the resignation of middle school language arts teacher Cheryl Porter and will post that position, along with one for a French and Spanish teacher.

Signs of life

He said the new lodge will be located just beyond the Carter Farm on the left, and he hoped to have it open for operation by this winter.

John Cheney, whose family purchased the Nonesuch Inn last year, agrees with Carter's sunny assessment of the long term local economic outlook, at least as it applies to tourism and skiing.

His family's first season at the inn was very successful, Cheney said—so much so, in fact, that they now want to expand the inn's 10 rooms to more than 30.

The preliminary plan Cheney presented to the planning board last week calls for converting the inn's barn into 22 guest rooms, on two floors. The conversion, Cheney said, would allow the inn to expand its capacity by more than three-fold while still maintaining the rustic aesthetics of the buildings and grounds.

He said that if all goes smoothly at least some of the new rooms will be ready for occupancy by the coming ski season.

Given the pulling power of Sunday River Skiway, Cheney said, the Bethel area can still be viewed as underdeveloped and capable of growing in a positive way.

And—lest all this new activity prove taxing on the body—the planning board last week also approved a change of use that will allow a Main Street building to be used as a chiropractic office.

and fear, I have joined several of my senate colleagues in reintroducing legislation to protect women from violence on the street and in the home and to safeguard their civil rights.

Called the Violence Against Women Act, this bill would combat domestic violence by requiring states to enforce other states' "stay away" orders. It would create federal penalties for spouse abusers who cross state lines to continue abuse, provide grants to encourage arrests of abusing spouses, double federal funds for shelters serving abused women and provide $25 million to prosecutors and courts to develop special units devoted to spouse abuse.

To make streets safer, the bill would require and expand victim restitution in federal sex crime cases, authorize $300 million to increase prosecutions, provide funds to increase lighting and camera surveillance at bus stops and parking lots, double federal penalties for rape and create new penalties for repeat sex offenders.

One especially important provision would classify gender-based assaults as violations of a woman's civil rights, providing women with the same protection that now cover other victims of "hate" or "bias" crimes.

This legislation cannot cure the pervasive problem of violence against women, but it is an important step in the right direction. We must better protect the rights of women in this country and hasten the day when they can be free from fear and risk.

cost containment strategies have been attempted by both the government and by businesses—with mixed results. Clearly, we must evaluate these strategies and work to improve on them. It is important that we examine the entire health care system, including both the price and the volume of services.

We must assure that each dollar spent gives us its best return. I believe that we can get more value for the over six hundred billion dollars we spend each year on health care. For example, it is estimated that between 10 and 30 percent of treatment for illnesses provided by physicians is either unnecessary or ineffective.

Research currently being conducted by the Agency for Health Care Policy and Research to identify unnecessary and ineffective treatment is one example of an effective initiative for developing cost-effective health care. The national effort is the result of legislation I introduced which was based upon the pioneering work of the Maine Medical Assessment Foundation. We need to expand our efforts in this direction.

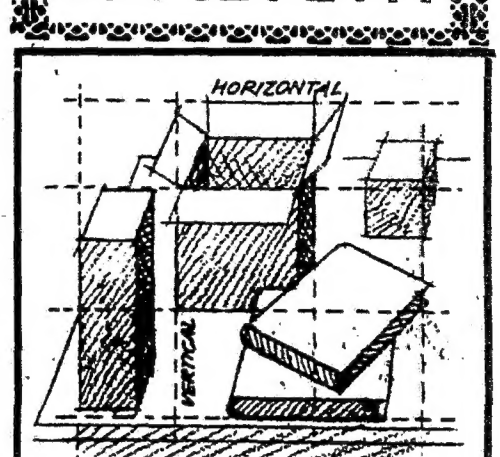

Health care reform must involve both an assessment of current cost-containment strategies and the development of new ones. But cost cutting alone does not constitute health care policy. We as a nation need to make explicit decisions about what we want to pay for.

I believe we must build upon the existing partnership in which the private sector and the federal and state governments share the responsibility of providing access to health care. Many of the states, including Maine, have been innovators in health care reform. Congress must look to the states to determine whether some of these innovative programs could be appropriately expanded on a national level.

I am a member of a Senate working group currently developing legislation to increase access to health care, which will be introduced in the Senate later this spring. I hope we can move forward swiftly in this Congress toward restructuring our health care system in a way which will provide services to all who need them, while controlling the escalating costs of health care.

Telstar class of 2000, this year's third-graders, plant their fir trees

This spring marks the third anniversary of SAD #44's Kids for Trees program. This environmental project entails students in grade-three planting Christmas trees, caring for them during the next nine years, then selling them as Christmas trees in their senior year. All proceeds will be put toward the senior Project Graduation and other graduation expenses.

Ninety-two third-graders from all district elementary schools met at the lot on Route 26 for two science classes this spring. The land is owned by P.H. Chadbourne and Company.

On their first visit to the lot, these students, Telstar's future class of 2000, prepared the lot for planting. Jim Chandler, education coordinator for Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District in South Paris, worked with each student in measuring a two meter square for their tree to grow in. Boise forester, Andrea Corbett, did a presentation on conifer identification, where students learned ways to identify 10 Maine conifers.

This week students returned to the lot to plant their balsam fir. With the help of Jim Chandler, Merle Ring, Jr. of the Maine Forest Service, and Boise foresters, Tim Gammell and Randy Oakes, 150 balsam fir trees have been added to the trees planted over the past two years. Third-grade teachers Brenda Wight, Elizabeth O'Meara, Jackie Morin, Karen Robinson, Carol Stuart, and Shirley Merrill were also involved.

"Our program provides many opportunities for environmental education for our students over a nine year period," said Merrill, third-grade coordinator for the district.

"This year Jim Chandler has worked with fourth- and fifth-grade coordinators, Len Hoy and Linda Wheeler, and me to devise a Kids for Trees curriculum for each grade-level, which will be a part of our new science program which begins next fall. This hands-on approach to learning about science and our environment will provide numerous opportunities to integrate math, language, and social studies skills with our science program," Merrill said.

"It's all very exciting to be involved in this outside science classroom. It's very rewarding to work with so many volunteers who share much of their expertise with our students. The support we get from the local community who donate time and money, of students who buy the pencils that third-graders sell, and of school staff who look on the program in a very positive way—these all help pay for our expenses in getting the trees in the ground. And best of all, students not only gain knowledge about the environment they live in, they also are putting forth an investment in their future, thanks to all the supporters who help them along their journey to be a high school graduate in June of 2000."

A pleasant surprise at this year's planting on Tuesday was the unexpected arrival of C. Edwin Meadows, Jr., commissioner of the Maine Department of Conservation. He was going by on his way to a meeting in Gilead and saw all the kids out on the lot. He stopped, got out and became another Kids for Trees fan!

Agnes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Due to scheduling problems there have been some changes in the dates for the upcoming Science Fair. Grades four, five and six will remain on Friday, May 17, from 1:30-2:45 in the gymnasium, but the kindergarten and first-graders will present their projects and displays on Tuesday, May 21, in the morning at their own school, the Legion Memorial.

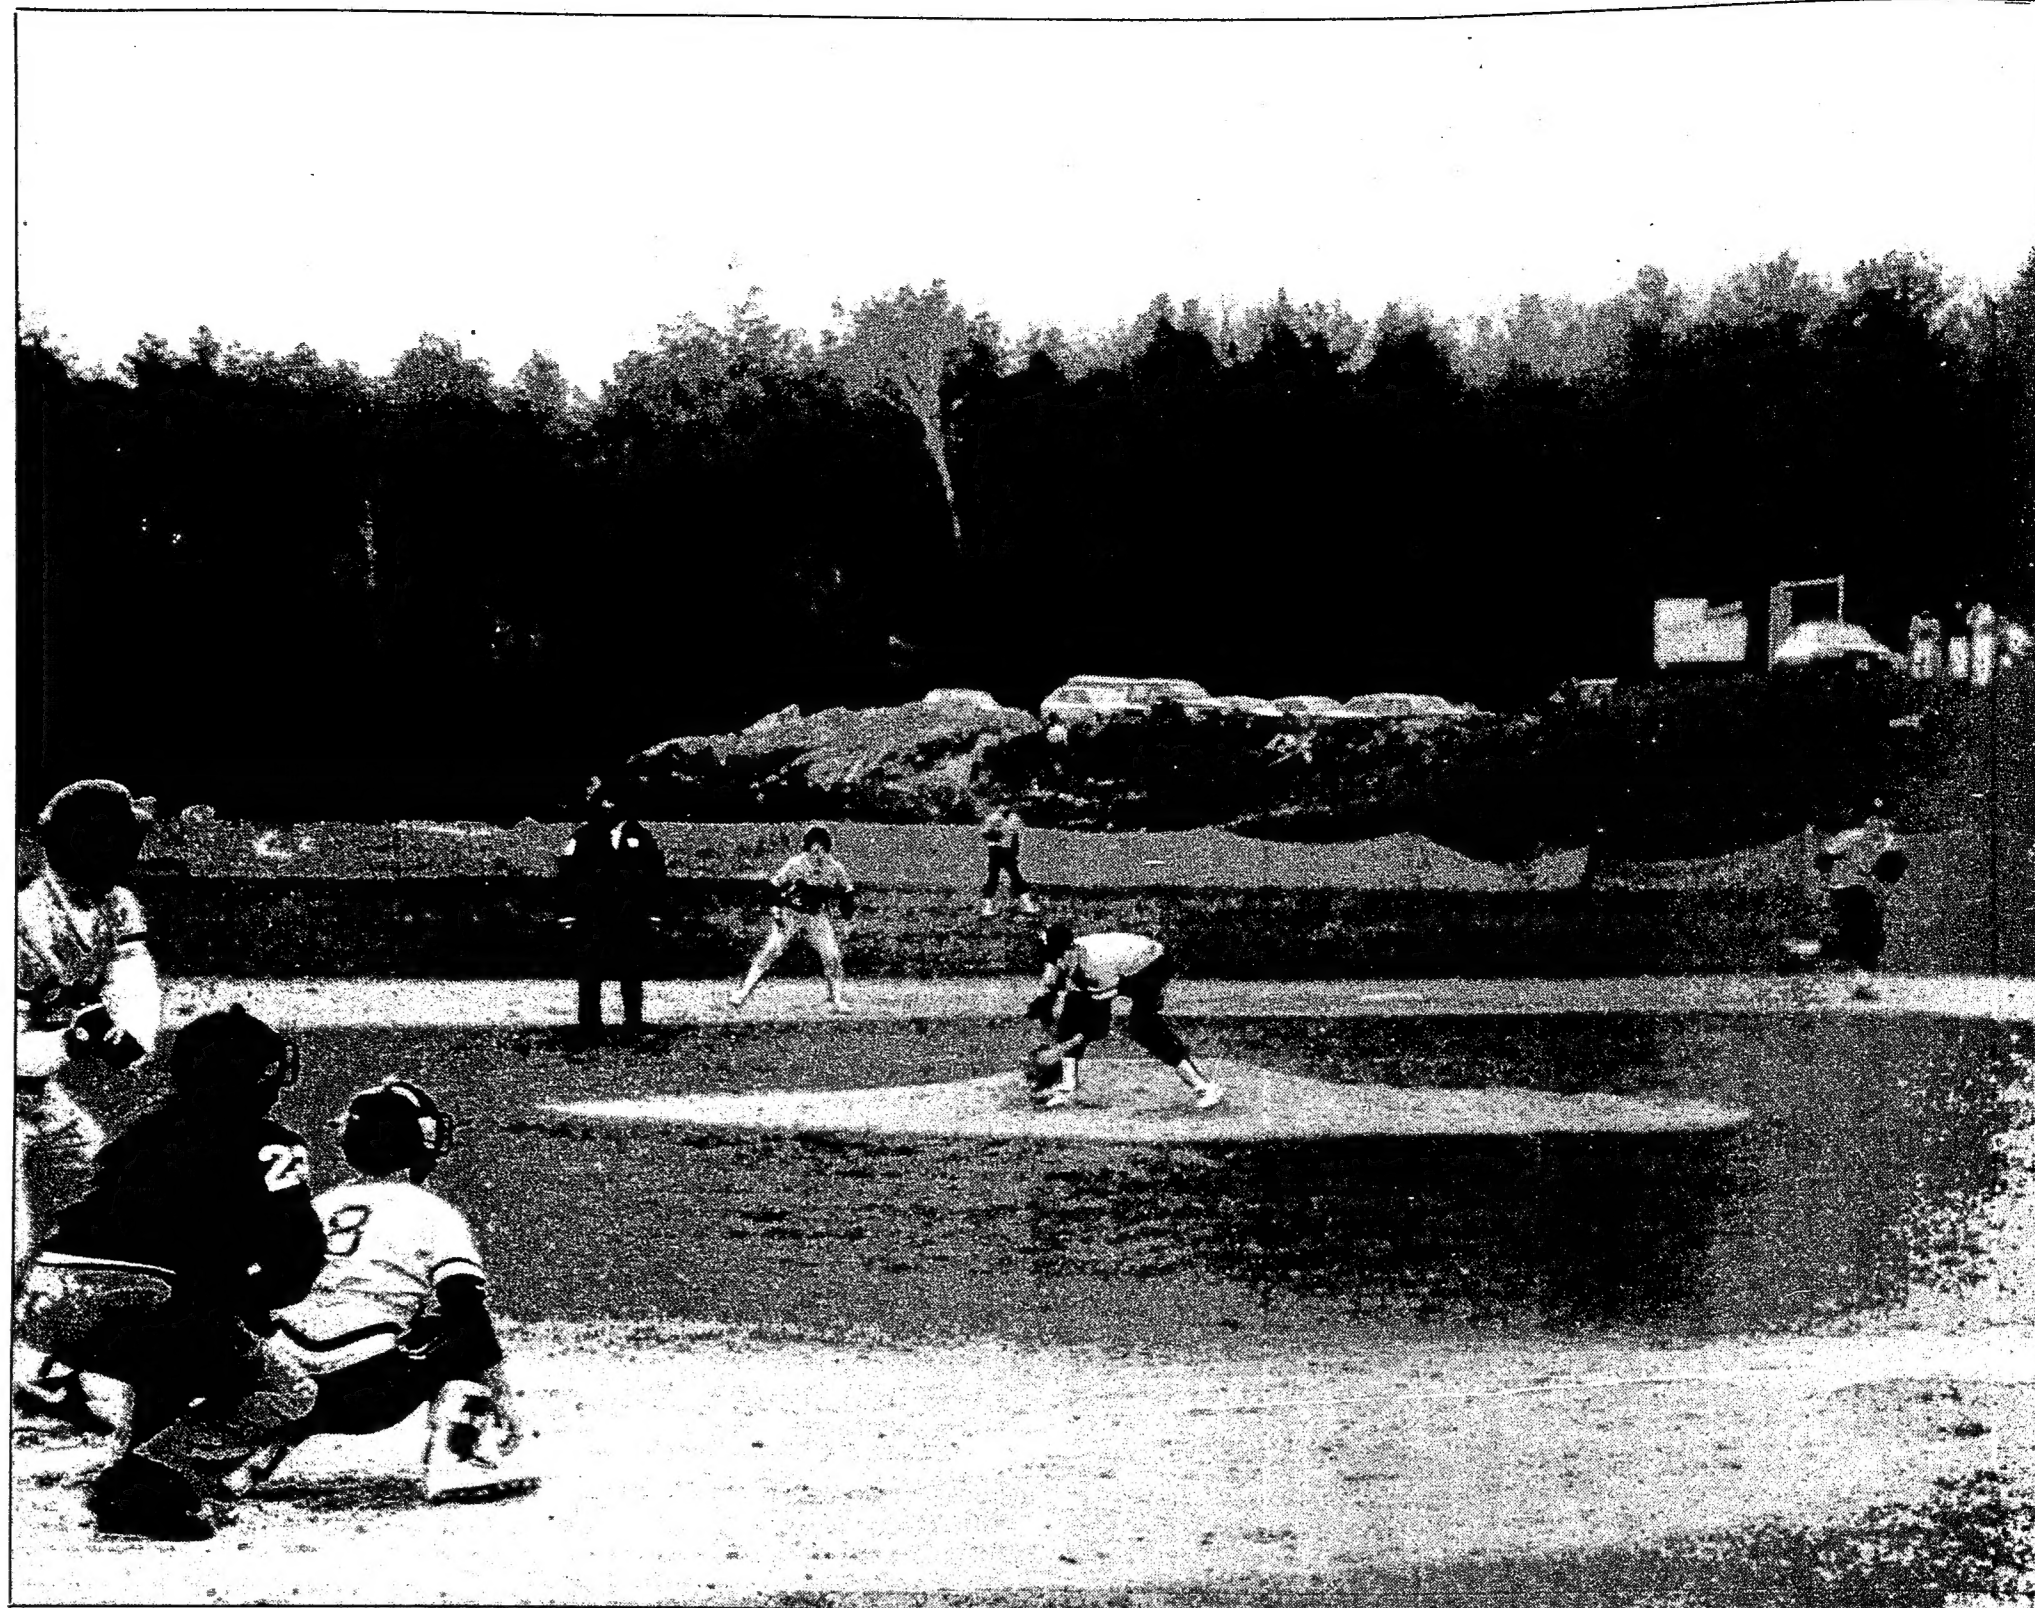

Parents and friends are invited to attend, and the upper grades will all have a chance to visit these classes also.

Grades two and three will present their individual projects on Tuesday, May 21, in the afternoon in the gymnasium. Again parents and friends are encouraged to attend, and all classes will be able to view the projects. The time will be 1:30-2:30.

Classroom news this week from the kindergarten teacher includes making Mother's Day gifts and cards. Both the kindergartners and the first-graders are making book marks for their mothers. The kindergartners are germinating and planting seeds for a group science project. They are also studying organisms. They have two aquariums with gold fish, newts, pond crabs and plant organisms.

The first-graders are working on their science fair projects on Exhibits of Spring and Baby Animals. They are learning about the signs of spring, with the focus being on baby animals. They are making individual animals out of clay. In math they are beginning to learn about fractions and creating halves and fourths out of felt shapes and other models. In reading they are continuing their fables by Arnold Lobel. Mrs. Fran Alexander visits on Tuesday afternoons to introduce computer activities.

Grades two through six have spent

EXPERIENCE COMES HARD—Steve Remington uncorks and offering during recent Telstar High School baseball action. The boys are still seeking their first victory of the season, but the young team members are getting plenty of playing time and are working on baseball fundamentals—which Coach Bob Remington hopes will help them improve their game next season.

a good part of the week taking SRA Achievement Tests. However, some regular activities are taking place also.

The second-graders are making Mother's Day cards. Aaron Brough is the special helper this week.

The third-graders are working on their science fair projects. They are working on spelling words with the VCV, vowel, consonant, vowel, pattern.

The fourth-graders are now studying the cities of the North Central Region. They are working on the part of the CAP program that deals with feelings. Our home/school counselor, Mr. Grigsby, has been visiting for a unit on coping with loss.

My fifth-graders are finishing up their class book "The Great Gilly Hopkins." We played a Jeopardy type game to review our science unit, and oral book reports have begun.

The sixth-graders have begun presenting their units on South America. Katie Buehl, Karen Yates, Jason Hill and Arney Coffin started things off with a unit on Mexico. This approach, called activity-based learning, is part of our new social studies curriculum.

Students who wish to participate in a Math-a-thon to raise money for St. Jude's Children's Hospital will be doing so this month.

The Benjamin Franklin Stamp Club members visited the West Paris Post Office this week to see how our post office works. Thanks to Mrs. Joan Young for a great visit. May 14, will be our last RIF, free book for everyone!

Congratulations to Mrs. Judy Loper, our first-grade teacher, for completing her master's degree through the Western Maine Center of Excellence. Well Done!

for the team's 0-10 record is "experience—especially pitching experience."

In 1989 the Rebels were Maine State Class C champs, and last year the team posted a 6-10 record. This year the team is feeling the loss of graduated pitcher-shortstop Corey Dugway and battery mate Nathan Misericordi.

Remington said that this season, "We have a lot of people who haven't played a lot of ball." For example, he said, of the team's four seniors, only one has played four years of high-school ball.

"It's a rebuilding situation we're in," the coach said. "For the next few years we'll be improving every year as the kids get older."

Remington said catcher Nate Buckman, centerfielder Mike Clark-Pelletier, pitcher-outfielder Bruce Korchmen, all seniors, and junior infielder Scott Higgins are all strong players.

After that, the remainder of the team is made up of young, inexperienced players. But many of the youngsters, Remington said, have the potential to become solid competitors.

Freshman outfielder Shaun Gilson has good knowledge of the game, Remington said, and Gilson and sophomore Nate Emery can both hit and field well and are also potential pitchers.

The coach said he expects that with more experience sophomore pitcher-outfielder Steve Remington will develop a strong arm. And freshman infielders Josh Otten and Chris Howe, who are now really junior varsity players, are developing the varsity skills needed to put the Rebels into the win column in future years.

The team's biggest strength this year, Remington said, is "patience and determination. They've been in some really tough games, but they don't seem to get too discouraged."

This year's training focus is on pitching and developing fundamental skills. Remington said his goal for the season is to make the younger members of the team, "see the importance of learning to play good fundamental baseball."

With over 10 years experience in counseling and group training, Martay is a frequent presenter for University of Maine Special Programs, and for corporate and organization clients. Topics to be included will be supervisory and managerial roles, understanding and working with others, motivation and recognition, listening and responding assertively, giving and receiving feedback, and conflict management and problem-solving.

The cost for the supervisory workshop, which will run from 9-3, is $20 per person including lunch, with a reduced rate of $15 per person for two or more employees from a business. A week in the life of HILLARY HARRISON

Well, Hello. How is everybody doing today?

Last week the school had a drug and alcohol awareness day. We started out the day with activities in the gymnasium. That was fun; we played a game kind of like dodge ball and then we had to keep a big ball in the air for as long as possible. Then we went on into the cafeteria with Randy Judkins.

He was sort of a comedian who was serious about self esteem. Then everyone went to sessions where we listened to speeches and did activities that had to do with drug and alcohol awareness.

Then came lunch and a delicious ice cream party for all. That afternoon we went to another session and continued on to a man who did a great skit on his life and his addiction to drugs and food. That was very touching. All in all it was a great day. Thank you Telstar for going through the trouble to make that day possible. Many of us appreciate it very much.

BreadNet telecommunications project explained at CPS

On Tuesday evening, May 28th, SAD #44 teachers and students involved in the BreadNet telecommunications project will give a presentation at Crescent Park School from 7 to 8 p.m.

Telecommunications is a way of communicating by computer through access to telephone lines. Although the technology is not new, the concept of using telecommunications in the classroom—especially the elementary classroom—is still considered innovative and experimental. Thanks to grant support and funding from the Bread Loaf School of English, the Otten Foundation and the Longview Foundation, six teachers in SAD #44 have been participating in a project that has introduced them and their students to the world of telecommunications.

On May 28, students from Elizabeth's O'Meara's third-grade class will show parents and interested community members how they use the technology to communicate with students across the country. A computer will be connected to an overhead projector so that Mrs. O'Meara and her students will be able to show the audience how they have shared their writing with students in other parts of the United States. They will also explain how they have used telecommunications to participate in a project with students on a Native American reservation.

Wendy Ford, Roger Sabin, Melanie Ellsworth, and Marguerite Graham will explain other ways that telecommunications can be incorporated into the classroom curriculum. Mike Delehanty will give the audience a peek into the future of technology and will conclude the presentation by explaining SAD #44's efforts to prepare students for the future of Information Age.

These teachers and students hope community members will make time to join them for an exciting look into the future of telecommunications.

Scholarship available to students with a farm or woods work background

As the 1991 academic year winds down, Ada Cookson, assistant coordinator for the Maine Rural Rehabilitation Scholarship Committee has reminded students that it is time to begin to plan for financial assistance for the 1991-92 academic year.

The Maine Rural Rehabilitation Scholarship Fund provides scholarships to students with a farm or woods work background, but in order to make the financial assistance available, applications are needed.

"It happens every spring," Cookson said. "Students are so busy this time of the year that applications come in very slowly."

Scholarship money is available. Individual scholarships are awarded on the basis of financial need and are limited to a maximum of $500 per year. These scholarships may be used to finance any type of higher education including college or vocational training.

To qualify for this scholarship, 50 percent of the family's income must be derived from farming or woods work, or the student must have a second generation farm or wood work background, or be the child of a deceased or physically impaired farm or woods worker.

For the first time this year, applicants without a farm or woods work background are eligible if they are members in "good standing" of Future Farmers of America and are planning to pursue a career in agriculture. Applications are available from the Maine Department of Agriculture,

Food and Rural Resources and must be submitted by June 15.

"C'mon, I know that you have a million things to do, but this is important," Cookson said.

For further information or to obtain an application, contact the Maine Rural Rehabilitation Scholarship Committee, Ada Cookson, Assistant Coordinator, Maine Department of Agriculture, State House Station 28, Augusta, Me., 04333-0028 or telephone 207-289-3511.

Heartburn: Inflammation of the Esophagus
Despite the name, heartburn is not a burning sensation of the heart. In fact, heartburn does not have anything to do with the heart. The medical name for heartburn is reflux esophagitis. The pain of heartburn occurs at a spot just behind the lower part of the breastbone. This pain is caused by the movement of gastrointestinal tract contents (digestive juices and partially digested food) into the esophagus. Irritation of tissues of the esophagus occurs.
Some individuals who have heartburn experience a burning sensation 10 to 15 minutes after eating a normal meal. The pain also may occur with overeating, smoking, drinking alcohol, eating highly seasoned or spicy foods, or lying down after eating a large meal.
Heartburn may be relieved merely by standing or sitting up. Dietary changes that may be beneficial include avoiding irritants such as fruit juices and alcohol. Non-prescription antacid medicines neutralize stomach acid and may lower pressure on the lower esophagus. Liquid antacids are commonly used for heartburn and often are recommended to be taken after meals and at bedtime.

Dean Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walker, has returned to his home in San Rafael, Calif. after visiting for several days. Mr. and Mrs. Craig Walker, Nashville, Tenn., have also been visiting the Walkers. Monday Dean Walker of Bath was with their mom, Virginia Walker for supper. They were reunited after two years of separation. Their brother Allan of Seabrook N.J. was unable to join them because of illness.

FCF Patrick Feeney called home on Monday, May 6 from Bahrain Island in the Persian Gulf. He was one of two selected from his company for a three day R&R on a cruise ship there. On Tuesday, they would go deep sea fishing. Upon returning to Kuwait on Thursday, May 9 Patrick should be moving down to Saudi Arabia as the 3rd Armored Division pulls out of Iraq and Kuwait, on their way back to Germany by June 1.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

A golden dawn seemed to have thrown its yellow light into the early bright blue of a glorious day, and the trees were a more lush green than ever as the light streamed through them. I was out in the fields, woods, and viewing the roadsides. I was a bit surprised to see so many wild flowers in bloom. I first noticed the blood-root with its spotless beauty. The flower is carefully shielded by deeply lobed leaves. The snowy petals fall from about their golden center before one has had time to grow satiated with their perfection. If the flower is picked, a red liquid oozes from the wounded stem.

The Indians used this crimson juice, as a decoration on their faces and tomahawks.

Near my driveway the Wake Robin or red trillium was just opening to the sun. Its odor is most unpleasant. The Dogtooth Violet was another that I noticed near the edge of the pond. This plant has other common names: Adder's Tongue and Fawn Lily are two. It really belongs to the lily family.

Then the most lovely of all grew by the roadside at the edge of the woods. Completely sheltered from the winds, and where the sun beat down with warmth, look closely among the old leaves and under them you'll find patches of Mayflower plants. Lift a sprig and underneath you find a cluster of buds and dainty flowers. With luck you'll find one or two which have taken on a glorious pink color. There is something about this flower, which is absolutely soul-satisfying. The Mayflower is modest, beautiful and joyous. Time is out of mind at this turn of the season, when flowers come into bloom and leaves pop out. The evergreens are silent sentinels of history, magnificent and common in this area.

Ferns grow thick about boulders. Our land is being transformed into a queen's garden of blossoming.

Blue space of the sky and level forest-grown land are stretching to the long humped profile of the hills.

So from the time of a golden dawn it seemed to have thrown its yellow light into the bright blue of a glorious day. What fun it was to get out and enjoy it all.

 This is Monday again and it rained. I had plans to work outside but changed my mind. The work will be there waiting.

This last week I was much pleased that Carl, my nephew came to build my wall which had tipped over and to mend a few other things.

I've been sporting a bit of a black eye for a few days because I had a small growth removed from the side of my nose.

On Sunday Sally Holt drove Fay, Ann, Mary Holt and me to Lands End for the day. It was a lovely day and a beautiful trip. Robert and David were at the farm with their father. They reported a good day but a very busy one.

Mary Holt spent a couple of hours with me on the weekend. Her first request used to be "will you read me a story?" Now, she reads so well that she doesn't need me to read stories.

Mothers' Day was Sunday.

Only One: Hundreds of stars in the pretty sky; Hundreds of shells on the shore together; Hundreds of birds that go singing by; Hundreds of bees in the sunny weather; Hundreds of dewdrops to greet the dawn; Hundreds of lambs in the purple clover; Hundreds of butterflies on the lawn; But only one mother the wide world over.

What a beautiful day Sunday turned out to be and we enjoyed it very much. Saturday was a good day also and Russell made use of it to plant his peas. Didn't get them in as early as he would have liked but they are in now and hopefully we won't get enough rain to rot them as the ground is rather damp where he planted them.

Rather cloudy this morning and they are saying we can get some rain. Russell and I were just speaking about last year about this time when we had the children from the Elementary School at Bryant Pond come and perform. We had a doozy of a thunder shower that night and they are saying we might get some today. Hope not at the height of our program. We love to see the children perform and it seems good to have them in the old Grange Hall. As children growing up in Bryant Pond, I remember the plays and operettas we put on in that hall. We all trooped down from the school to practice and it sure was fun.

Getting about time to fix up boxes for Memorial Day and we fix them up with silk flowers and put them on the cemetaries to remember our folks. I hadn't gotten the boxes off the cemetery on Pike's Hill so on Monday evening, Russell and I went up to get them. I had sewed a lot that day and needed to get out of the house for a while.

Almost forgot our trip to West Baldwin on Thursday evening. We had a two point meeting of Pomona there were to fill the chairs and put on the program. Russell spoke one of his newest pieces and all enjoyed it very much. It is so funny it will bring tears to your eyes at times. All you have to do is have a good imagination when he speaks it.

It took us a little over an hour to get there but went early enough to have time to find the place as we had never been there before.

There is one thing about it, when you go to a grange meeting you are among friends even if you never met them before. It makes one feel welcome at any hall.

Saturday was a busy day for Peggy especially as she went to Rumford Grange for their day meeting and didn't get home until in the afternoon. Then she went to the dance at West Paris in the evening.

Sunday, yesterday, we met at the Grange Hall in Bryant Pond for a rehearsal of the degree work for Pomona which takes place there on Tuesday evening of this week.

Russell and Peggy went to help with the senior citizen dinner put on by the grange on Thursday noon. That was a busy day as I made casseroles to take to West Baldwin and Peggy and Russell went to help with the dinner and then to Pomona. Sure keeps one busy.

Tom was up a couple of times this week to play cards. We miss his not being near enough to come in most any evening as he was doing but where he is in town now, it makes it harder. However, we enjoy playing when he can come and hopefully we can get down there some time also.

Mary says they had a good crowd at the dance on Saturday night and hopes it continues in the future. A good crowd means more money for the things the grange needs so it is for a good cause. Mary has had the usual visitors but couldn't think of any others who might have called. Being so busy with the children, I can understand.

Get lots to do and not enough time to do it in so guess I better get busy so hope everyone is in tip top shape.

I will mention again that Peggy has jar rubbers to sell for the grange if anyone needs them for this summer. They are the Viceroy brand but seem to be good ones. With so many Ball jars left in the countryside, it does seem odd that they don't make the rubbers

Newry

By JIM ANDERSON

To the unknown writer of last week's article on the town meeting of May 6, First you forgot to mention that it was a stormy night and second inferred that no one cared about what the meeting was about. Wrong on both number 1 and 2. The Newry Fire Department was to meet that night, but moved it's meeting to the next day in order for its members to go to the meeting at town hall. I know because no one told me that the meeting was moved to the next night. I stayed at the station house til 7 p.m.

On May 1, I mentioned some gray news. I mentioned about returning skis to the town hall on May 18, 7, 14, 21, and 28. If you don't return the skis, you will not ski this winter. Also on May 25 the Bear River Grange will have a community day starting at 6 p.m. with a potluck supper. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson and group will have a program of Gospel music. These Andersons are the family of Sylvia Gray.

May 18 will be a community clean-up day. Any item that would need a sticker from Bethel Town Hall still needs it. Newry will have a No leaves or household garbage (like D & E) will be taken till the 20th. Call the town hall for details.

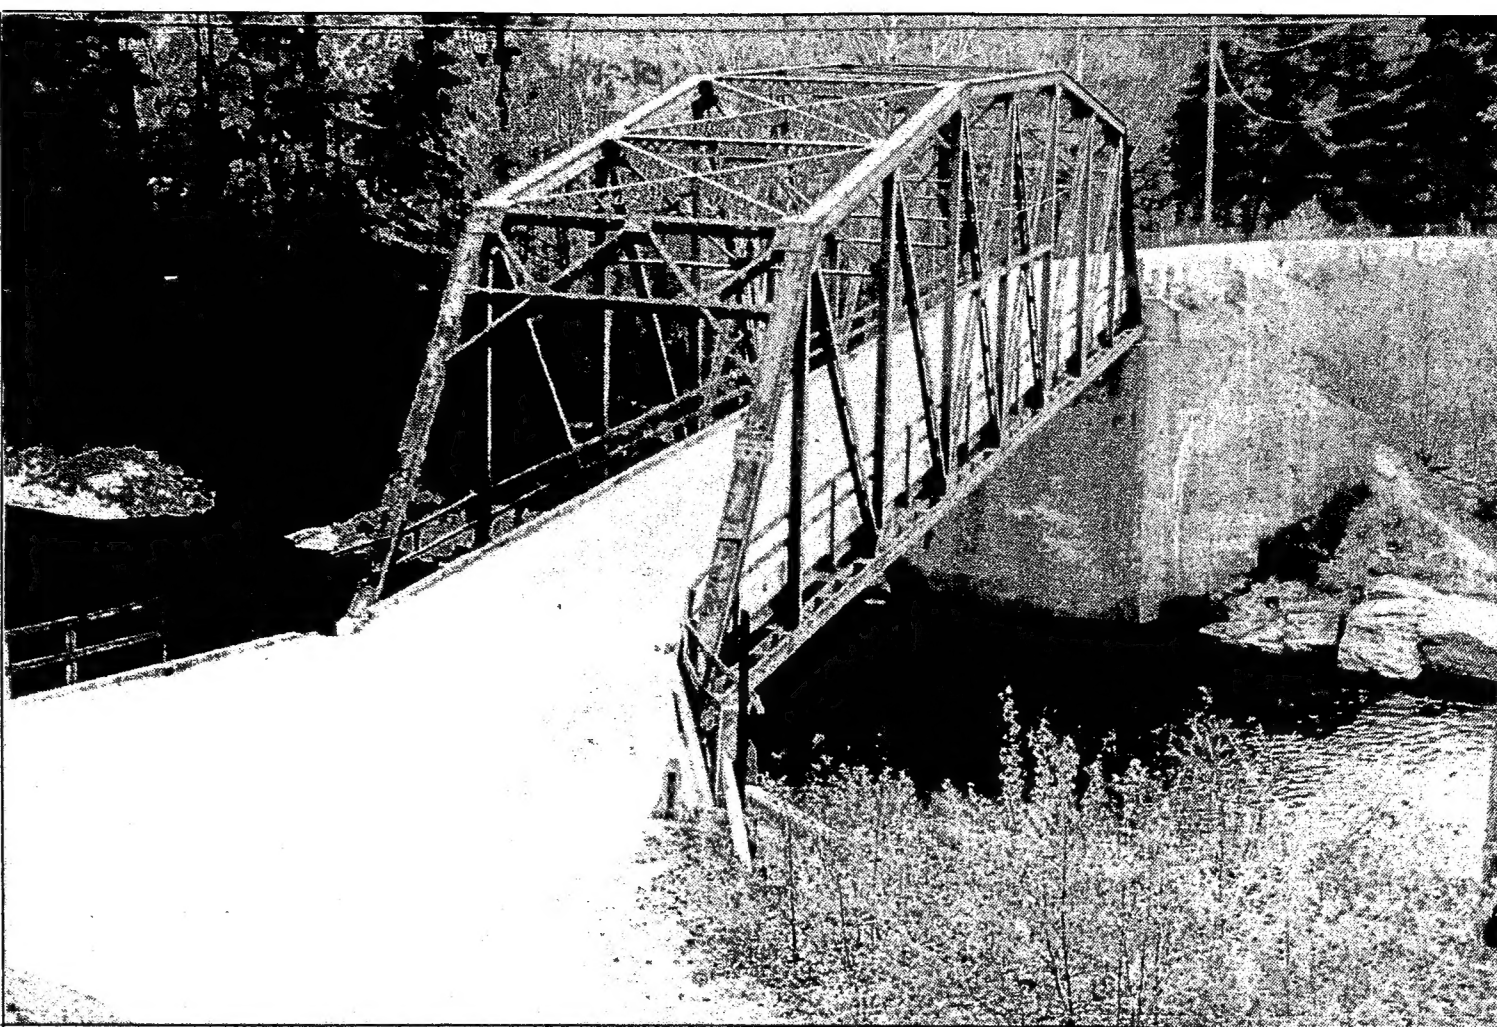

Two special people from a special family that I know of will be having a birthday on May 19 and May 21. Matt Conkright and Michelle Conkright.

Word has been received that Rev. Eunice Shaw Bill has died in Chautauque, N.Y. on March 26. She served several rural Maine churches. This from Sylvia Wight via Willard.

Newry Ladies Circle news: May 6 meeting, held at Freda Robertson's house; the ladies decided to send a check to the Androscoggin Home Health Service. There will be no June meeting.

Fire department news: as mentioned in the start of this article, the usual meeting was moved from May 6 to May 7. At the meeting, it was decided that since both stations were public buildings, there will be no smoking. This issue was handled with a lot of tact by the chief! Next meeting will be at Sunday River Station instead of at Town Hall. June 3, members will spruce up the station and the grounds after a quick meeting. May 8, 1300 feet of new 2 1/2 inch hose was delivered to the Bear River Station. On May 9, the chief and the secretary moved 26 rolls of hose to the Sunday River Station. Using a die punch set, both Tink and I labeled each roll of hose. Since both trucks on the Bear River side of town have the maximum amount of hose on them, this new hose will be put on either or both units 203 and 204. The punch die set was loaned to us by Bill Wight. Thanks Bill!

Almost forgot, bowling news. Would I get in trouble! Again this week, Karlene Bachelder won high 3 string and high single string. At the Oxford

BRIDGE CLOSING—The deck of the Gilead bridge spanning the Androscoggin River will be replaced this summer. The bridge is off the North Road near the Gilead village. The next bridge that crosses the river to the west is in Shelburne, N.H. and to the east in Bethel. The one-lane bridge will be closed to traffic for about three months, according to the Maine Department of Transportation. (This is not the smaller bridge on Route 2 over the Swift River.)

Lanes were Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seelye, Bea Lowell, Birthday girl Louise Tetley, Olive Anderson. Guests were Rena Powers and Jim Anderson. After bowling mother had it out with the Sears shop in Mexico over her much delayed powermate vacuum cleaner power head. Next stop was the motor vehicle registration office in Mexico and while they cried over having the 10th off, mother said her piece. After a meal and some of my sick jokes, everyone was better! While at the lanes I managed 3 free pin-ball games! Just my luck?

Upton school board met Wednesday evening with the three members, chairman Al Gagnon, Terry Beauchene and Arthur Couture and Superintendent of SAD #4 Dwayne Craig present. The bills for transportation and tuition were on the warrant and signed by members. Superintendent Craig opened the one bid for transportation from Upton to the last bus stop in Newry for the school year 1991-92 from Laurie French. Her bid was accepted unanimously.

The selectmen met Monday evening at the Town Office.

Reggie and Martie Edwards picked up a loon in Grafton Notch this week. They were not aware that the bird was helpless on land so thought it might be wounded or hurt. They picked it up by throwing a jacket over it. At first, they thought to take it to the vet but Martie was having some difficulty holding the bird so they hoped either Game Warden Don Gray or Sylvia was home. Both were at their residence in Upton and took the loon to be released in Umbagog. The Grays treated the Edwards to the unusual sight of their dog jumping into the pond for a stick and a duck climbing onto the dog's back to get a ride across the pond.

Violette and Arline Bernier called on Bill Wood and bought some cuttings and plants from his greenhouse.

Esther Davis, Ethel Davis, Leona Farnum and Edith Deegan attended the graduation of Esther's granddaughter, Jackie Tibbetts from Mid-State College, Sunday. Jackie was more than pleased that her brother, E-3 Neil Tibbetts from Germany and the Gulf, was there to see her graduate. Following the ceremonies a family cook-out was held at the home of Patricia Tibbetts with from 20-25 people attending. What a blessing a fabulously beautiful day can be for an occasion like that!

Virginia, Goldie and Jim Mason Jr., have recently called on Olive Davis with gifts of fresh Florida fruit and a beautiful, bright red Impatiens plant. The Willing Workers held their May meeting at the home of Marta Clements. Members attending were Andrea Wing, Claribel Poland, Mione Record, Minna Morgan, Thomasina Poland, Polly Bean, Carol Corriveau and Marta Clements.

Plans were made for the annual yard and food sale which will be held on Saturday, June 1, from 9-2 at the Union Church in South Woodstock. Members and friends are asked to leave donations with Andrea Wing or Marta Clements.

A game of Pokeno provided entertainment. The next regular meeting will be June 8 at the Union Church.

Sylvia Andrews, Olive Davis' niece, has contracted yeast throat and is laid up at her home in Bridgton at present. The Historical Society met May 11 at their building in Bryant Pond.

Pomona held their meeting at Bryant Pond Tuesday night. Franklin Grange meeting included entertainment by the children on May 6.

A lot of festivities are coming up. Watch for all the dates coming up, this month.

The Zier's class letter arrived this week at my house. People are inching towards Maine who have traveled out of the state. Orpha Davis, Elizabeth Young and family and some others will be here later.

sewer usage (usually to accommodate a change of building use) to receive a credit for their previous amount of usage.

A second revision would change the way sewer bills are calculated to allow a customer's quarterly bill to be determined by their previous quarter's usage, rather than by their usage during the previous year.

For procedural reasons these proposed changes are being offered as an entire new sewer ordinance, rather than as a series of separate amendments.

Also up for discussion at the hearing are the proposed closing of five town roads to winter maintenance and the discontinuance of a sixth, Chase Road. All six roads (including Chase Road) had been closed to winter maintenance for 10 years in 1981.

For the roads to remain closed to this town service, town meeting voters will have to reimpose the maintenance closure.

The section of Chase Road proposed for discontinuance runs for approximately 7 miles north of Route 26, beginning at the South Bethel Cemetery.

In non-town-meeting matters to be discussed Monday, licenses will be considered for 36 Bethel victualer, innkeepers and/or lodging establishments, and for two automobiles/gravelyard/junkyards.

The two gravelyard/junkyard sites in question are at Groan & McGurn in West Bethel and at the residence of Clayton Swett near the Route 2 cloverleaf.

The selectmen had earlier this year considered these permits along with those for a number of other sites. The permits for Groan & McGurn and Swett were postponed pending resolution of some problems at the two sites.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley is inspecting both sites this week and said she plans to have a recommendation regarding their permits at Monday's meeting.

a letter to McKernan in support of the testing, and Dixon thanked them.

In other business, Douglass Grover of Locke Mills, who also maintains the Bethel cemetery, was the successful bidder for the position of the cemetery sexton from May through October at $90 per week. Since this is an independent contracting position, all original bidders were asked to re-bid this week, taking into consideration the necessity of having to have their own insurance. Mr. Grover was the successful bidder both times, and came highly recommended by the town of Bethel. His duties will start immediately.

Selectmen Fred Emerson said he was approached by a resident who told him "they would be ashamed to be a selectmen in Andover with pot holes in front of the stores." After discussion, the board decided that the property concerned was private property, and not their responsibility.

The selectmen, acting as the town's code enforcement officer, signed all seven building permits which had been approved by the Planning Board on Monday night.

Crescent Park School 1990-91 annual report

(Note: During the intense process of getting articles finalized for our latest edition of the SATELLITE, this report from the Crescent Park School was inadvertently omitted. We apologize for the error and thank The Citizen for including it in this edition of the newspaper.)

Dewaine Craig
Superintendent of Schools

Report of the Crescent Park School Principal

As I complete my first year as principal of the Crescent Park School, it is my pleasure to issue the following report for the 1990-91 school year.

This has been an exciting year at Crescent Park. It has been filled with changes and challenges that have helped strengthen the school. I have appreciated the professionalism and dedication so evident in the C.P.S. staff. Their attitude and care for the children help make this school a warm and safe place for children to grow and learn.

In addition to a new principal, the school also welcomed our new staff this year, including Heidi Steele, grade-four teacher; Ed Stevens, art; Levi Brown, physical education; Vickie Morgan, A.S.S.C. secretary; Linda Howe, Chapter One aide and Kathy Acker, guidance counselor. Caroline Gould and Meg Cousins moved up the road to join us from the Bethel Bisbee. Mrs. Kathy McCluskey is also back with us as an instructional aide. Charles Plummer has also joined the district as our elementary language arts coordinator.

The facility also underwent some changes this year. Students were greeted in August with a newly painted main hallway, complete with murals done by local artist Jewell Clark. Plants were added throughout the building and have been maintained by students throughout the year.

Fifth-grade students have been called upon to be true building leaders this year. As part of that they have been given many responsibilities in the building: care of the flags, kitchen duties and care of indoor and outdoor plants, to name but a few.

Special activities at the school this year have included Grandparents' Day, Good Neighbor Day at Sullybury Village, Student Recognition Day at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, D.A.R.E. Day, Young Authors' Day, Mock Election Day, Ecology on Skis Day, an overnight Read-A-Thon, our Holiday Concert at Telstar, presentations around town by the CPS Chorus, our Annual Craft Fair held at Telstar, and various other school spirit days.

We continue to enjoy an excellent relationship with Gould Academy. This year, we were fortunate to work with Gould faculty member Steve Sanborn in coordinating two highly successful programs and students at CPS appreciate the efforts of Gould students as they continue to share their time with us in a very positive way.

The Mahoosuc Arts Council also continues to help foster appreciation of the Arts for CPS students. Once again this year, our children were fortunate to be able to participate and take advantage of many programs sponsored by Mahoosuc, including presentations by pianist Masanobu Ikemiyama, mimes The Wright Brothers and a fabulous artist in residency featuring Paul Sarvis, Gretchen Berg and Gwyneth.

Jones.

In addition, CPS was also able to sponsor other presentations this year as a result of a very successful Walk-A-Thon fundraiser in the fall. These presentations included Randy Judkins, Aerie East and Mr. Wizard's Supermarket Science. Our booster club also started the year with an evening performance of Schooner Fare.

Fifth-grade students were able to gain a better understanding of local history as a result of several presentations by Dr. Stanley Howe. Dr. Howe's expertise and ability to work most effectively with the children has added an extra dimension to our social studies curriculum. His efforts are greatly appreciated.

The CPS Odyssey of the Mind program continues to excel. Out of four teams competing this year, we were proud to have first, second and third place winners. We were prouder still of the effort and attitude displayed by each and every one of our contenders!

Kids for Trees, a district-wide third-grade program continues to receive widespread support from the Bethel area. Our sports program flourished this year thanks to the combined efforts of staff and volunteers. Soccer, basketball, cross country skiing and softball were offered this year. Each sport enjoyed fantastic student turnouts. At the end of the soccer season, the CPS staff and coaches took on the students in an effort to show that old eggs can still overcome youth and skill. The results were less than successful, although a tremendous amount of fun for all concerned a similar event is planned for the end of softball season.

CPS also initiated a student council this year. This group of student leaders meets monthly to plan activities and offer input regarding certain school decisions.

Perhaps the most significant school-wide activity this year was our Million Minutes of Reading Challenge. From November to January students, staff, parents, grandparents and interested community members kept a tally of the time spent reading alone and to each other. A joint effort with the Bethel Bisbee School, this program received tremendous support from the community and culminated in March with the State Board of Education presenting us with a "Making the Grade" award for our efforts.

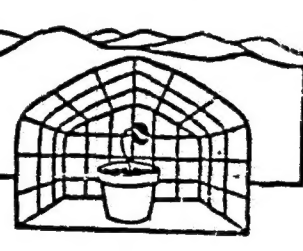

In closing, I would like to extend my thanks to the CPS staff for their efforts this year, to our booster club for their support and most importantly to our students for the effort and attitude they extended to our superintendent Dewaine Craig for his continued effort on the behalf of our students.

Russia

for tracking our luggage and gave us a warm welcome. Because it was International Women's Day, a national holiday in Russia when school were closed, I was presented with bouquets of flowers as the only female in our Maine delegation.

Throughout our stay we had a nine-passenger Mazda van and driver available to us every day. Our Russian hosts were a school principal, her assistant, and three school psychologists. They had planned a very full and comprehensive schedule which included a three-hour meeting with the local board of education and visiting three public schools, a pedagogical institute, and the psychology department at Leningrad University.

We described the guidance services and developmental programs offered in Maine schools to incredulous audiences. Teachers and board members were very attentive as we spoke, asking many questions about how guidance services are integrated into the curriculum. We were impressed that their questions were not unlike many that parents and school boards have asked in Maine.

Visiting classes was a real highlight for us, as we observed English, art, physics, history, and math classes. The three schools had grades one through twelve under one roof. Not every school teaches English, but parents may elect to send their children to a district school that teaches English from second through 12th grade.

School #272 and Mt. Valley Middle School and Schools have been linked in a partnership through letters between the three principals of these schools. It is an English language school of 900 students in Mt. Valley Middle School have sent letters to and received letters from Russian students who attend School #272. Later we hope to arrange teacher and student exchanges between the schools.

Children in Leningrad walk to school if they elect to attend a neighborhood school. If they qualify for a specialized public school they may need to use the metro or streetcar. In the classes that we attended, children were eager to ask questions about our schools and our students. We very quickly realized that Maine and Russian children were more alike than different. They enjoy rock music and rap; they talk on the phone with friends, skateboard, and think they have too much homework. They like teachers who care about them and go the extra mile to help them, and they think their parents don't trust them or let them make their own decisions.

We lived with our Russian hosts in their flats, where each person is allowed six square meters of living space. Living and dining rooms by day become bedrooms at night. People build partitions in large rooms to provide privacy for children as they grow older. It is not unusual for three generations to occupy a flat, with grandparents who have retired on a small pension assuming responsibility for child care and standing in line for food. Heat, propane, and electricity are provided by the state, so it's availability is out of the tenants' control. The water in Leningrad is so polluted that no one drinks it until it is boiled. We had to be careful not to turn on the water when brushing our teeth.

We had purchased water for that purpose.

Food and grocery items are difficult to obtain. Our hosts provided a variety of food for us, but we were advised not to ask where they got it. Our feeling was that ordinarily their menus were not based on choice but availability of basic food items.

One of our new friends makes fruit compote at the family dacha (summer house) to last through the winter when fresh fruit is difficult to find in the market. Each day people stand in line to obtain goods with a ration card at government stores or pay a great deal at commercial enterprises. Shelves are usually empty by afternoon.

Our friends are unsure of the future and wonder what April 1 will bring in terms of rising prices. Salaries are not likely to increase as much as prices. They wonder how their countrymen will react to the unrest that seems to be building and fear that their new freedoms will be taken away.

In spite of their problems we found the Russian people to be caring and very generous. When we gave a gift, the adult or child who accepted it gave something in return. Children in the schools gave us pictures that they had made, pins from their uniforms or toys. Our host friends gave us a variety of gifts to bring home from china cups and saucers to champagne and local craft items.

Our professional association developed as we discussed how to best train school counselors in Russia or get their school psychologists enrolled in some counseling courses in America. All or some of our Russian colleagues will visit Maine next summer to meet with school officials and possibly take courses. As the five Mainers parted in Boston our mutual question was: "What have we begun?"

We have all altered our lifelong perception of Russia as our adversary. Educationally, politically, and personally our first step toward a lasting relationship with Russian educators was a huge one.

DARE supporters meet

On May 2, the Project D.A.R.E. committee held its first meeting at the Bethel Area Health Center to discuss fundraising and plans for the sixth-grade students for the upcoming 1991-92 year.

Those present at the meeting were: Oxford County Sheriff Lloyd Herrick, Oxford County Deputy Brian Stowell, Bethel chief of Police Dale Bellman; and Jannine Buck, Jane Rolfe, Cindy Mills, Cindy Walker, Linda Stowell and Laurie Bellman.

The committee, focusing on its fight against drug abuse and the education D.A.R.E. provides, is enthusiastically hoping to get many parents involved with the program now that the committee has had a year to see how the program works.

Committee members are asking any and every parent of a fifth-grader this year who will be going into the sixth-grade to get involved with the program. The program's success is their success and in the end is the success of everyone. The biggest success story will be the child's and their ability to resist the temptation of drug use.

The committee is presently working on putting together several fundraisers, and members ask that anyone who would like to get involved with the program attend the next meeting on Thursday, May 30, at the Bethel Area Health Center at 7 p.m.

ROUND ROBIN BRIDGE

The Round Robin Bridge Club held the final game of the 21st session on Sunday, May 5, at the Town and Country in Shelburne, N.H.

Of the 36 players, the top 10 players, in order, were: Al Barth, Barbara Lucas, Pearl McMillin, Evaline Kimball, tied for fifth, Richard Grover and Wilder Kimball, Sue Crane, Wende Gray, Elaine Dresser, Lee Barth.

Individual high scorer was Al Barth and individual low scorer was June Greig. The Glad You Came award was given to June Greig.

The committee of Richard and Mary Lou Grover and Ruth Wight deserves a great deal of credit for their special efforts for the session.

The next session (the 22nd) will start next fall.

Anyone interested in joining may contact the committee of Al and Lee Barth, Joan Putnam and Cynnie Snow.

Works by local teachers published in new books

Heinemann publishers of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, has listed in its spring catalogue two books that include chapters written by Karen Robinson of Andover and Marguerite Graham of Bethel.

Karen Robinson, a third-grade teacher at Woodstock Elementary School contributed a chapter in "With Promise, Redefining Reading and Writing Needs for Special Students," edited by Susan Stires of the Center for Teaching and Learning in Edgecomb, Maine. Robinson's chapter, "Pull Out or Put In," discusses the issues surrounding where best to provide for the academic needs of special students and the pros and cons of in-classroom and out of classroom Chapter One and Special Education services.

Marguerite Graham, co-coordinator of the Bread Loaf in the Schools project for the past five years, contributed a chapter in "Workshop 3," edited by Nancie Atwell. Mrs. Graham's chapter, "Publishing and the Risk of Failure," examines the process and problems of publishing for a community audience.

Both books are available through Heinemann Publishers or local bookstores.

'Once upon a Mattress' to be performed at Gould

On Saturday, May 18 and Friday, May 24 students of Gould Academy, along with friends from the community will present the musical, "Once Upon a Mattress." The performances will begin at 8 p.m. in Bingham Auditorium and the public is cordially invited.

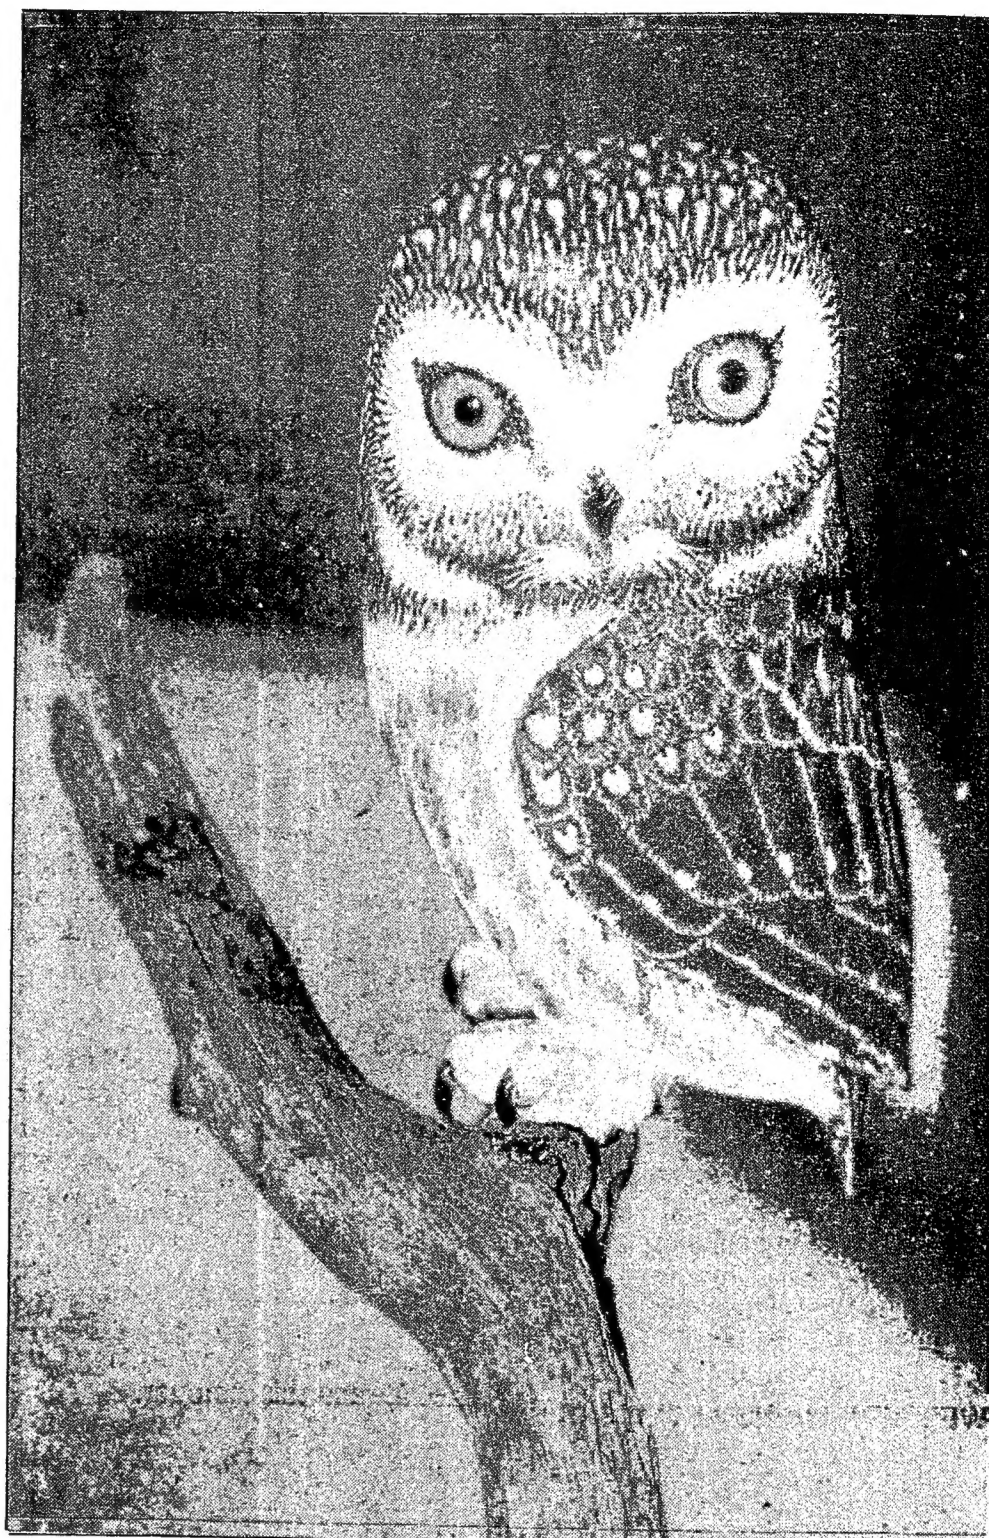

The story of the Princess and the Pea is well known to most of us. However, the version told in this comical show is a bit out of the ordinary. It was, after all, Carol Burnett's introduction to Broadway audiences.

The Gould presentation will feature Kristin Petrone in the role of the bruised princess, challenged by Kathy Slack as Queen Agravain, admired by Jennifer Baldwin as Prince Dauntless and encouraged by Jill Nowak and Jeff McCarthy (Lady Larkin and Sir Harry) who have much at stake. The story is narrated by a Minstrel, played on May 18 by Samantha Langlois and on May 24 by Molly Gartrell.

Musical numbers will be accompanied on the piano by Roberta Muse of Fryeburg, with the assistance of Jean Bass, flute; Nancy Carroll, violin and Brendan Bass, bass. Costume construction is under the supervision of Vicki Rackliffe, and scenery and prop construction is being guided by Janice Kaufman and Shirley Hodsdon. Stage director is Carol Fiske, assisted by stage manager Anne Gustavson.

Crescent Park School students Caitlin Bass and Sarah Rackliffe, and Telstar Middle School students Leah Bonnerma and Annaliese Bass are the local schools' additions, performing as dancers in the musical.

Walk will raise funds for local child-abuse prevention efforts

The Oxford County Child Abuse Prevention Council, a non-profit program of Community Concepts Inc., will sponsor a walk in Bethel to raise funds for resource materials for each of the SAD #44 elementary schools.

The materials will supplement the personal safety prevention program. The program has been recognized by the Maine Children's Trust Fund as outstanding in its quality. A dedicated group of educators from each school have been meeting for the past four years to develop the program that focus on safety and well being issues.

The program reinforces positive decision making skills, coping skills, communication, and conflict resolution. The program is very important as a prevention tool to ensure safety of each child. National statistics are documenting that one in four girls will be sexually assaulted by age 18; and one in six boys. These numbers are reflecting reported cases only; the actual incident is thought to be much higher.

The "Walk for Prevention" is scheduled for Saturday, June 8 and will begin at the Bethel Fire Station and continue through the center of Bethel for 1.3 miles. Each participant in the walk will receive a T-shirt courtesy of local business support. Walkers are being asked to solicit one pledge amount from each supporter for the walk. Pre-registration is due by May 21 to order T-shirts.

The entire community is invited to participate in this walk. Pledge sheets are available at the elementary schools or by calling Community Concepts at 743-7716.

WEDNESDAY EVENING MAY 22,

From the Bethel Area

Chamber of Commerce

The Bethel Area Chamber would like to welcome our newest member, David Smith/Bethel, Chiropractic Health Center on Main Street, Bethel.

Please be reminded about the Chamber's annual awards on Friday, May 17, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center at 7 p.m. See below for information on the awards recipients.

The board voted to recognize two Telstar seniors on that evening. Dan Hart will be submitting the names of two students who have been good citizens of the school community.

The Chamber Board met for the regular monthly meeting on Thursday, May 9.

The board regrettably accepted the resignations of Ernestine Riley, Leon Favreau and Nancy Harrison. A nominating committee was appointed to fill the vacancies. The committee is Rick Whitney, Tom McGinniss, Linda Varrell and Barbara D. Brown.

Robin has been asked to supply a list of current board members and their length of service on the board as well as new possibilities for the board.

A discussion about revenue sources included the coupon booklet, Mollycodd Day and the golf tournament.

The board voted to continue with the coupon booklet project and to solicit more restaurant values in and out of the Bethel area.

Mollycodd Day issues were discussed and many board members will be going to the Lion's Club meeting next Tuesday evening.

The planning for the golf tournament is well underway. The committee of Jay Gamble, Jack Cronin, Bill Barter and Robin Zinchuk met last week to do further planning and follow up. Robin announced that Delta Air Lines had donated two round-trip tickets anywhere in the continental U.S., which will be given out at the dinner after the tournament in a blind draw format so that anyone who participates in the tournament has a chance to win them. Also announced was that North Center Foods, the Bethel Citizen and the Lewiston Sun have already signed on as tournament sponsors.

Robin shared that she had met with the retailers last week and they are planning a downtown Bethel beautification project with flowers. A committee of Carol Duplessis, Ginger Kelly, Jim Mann and Ann Friedlander are meeting to plan locations and sponsors for the half barrels of flowers. Carol Parker of Pleasant River Trading Co. has volunteered to form a committee to plan for a Christmas prelude celebration.

The innkeepers also met last week at the Norseman Inn. Many thanks to Dale and John Cheney for hosting it. There were a lot of constructive suggestions offered for the operation of the Bethel Area Reservation Service next season. The innkeepers were given an evaluation form to fill out. There seemed to be a consensus that we need to look into a 1-800 toll free line. The board of directors gave Robin approval to go ahead with this.

Tom McGinniss announced that planning for the Bethel art fair is well underway. The committee has successfully increased their mailing list to nearly 500. The fair will be held on Saturday, July 6, on the Bethel Common. Community organizations are being asked to sell food.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, June 13, at Casco.

Many, many thanks to the following volunteers who helped remove the Christmas lights from the Common: Esther Crockett, Julie Daye, Jackie Libby, Robert Crockett, Randy and Joel Mills, Contel.

ANNUAL CHAMBER AWARDS

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce would like to announce the recipients of the 1991 Chamber Awards, which will be presented on Friday, May 17 at the Bethel Inn Conference Center at 7 p.m.

The Henry Hastings Award for Citizenship will be presented to Arlene Greenleaf, chief of the Bethel Area Emergency Ambulance Service. Arlene has been affiliated with the service for more than 15 years and has been chief for most of that time. She has given tirelessly of her time and has been a true asset to the community.

The Senior Citizen Award will be presented to Rodney and Geraldine Howe of Bethel. They are lifelong residents of the area and have been very involved in many community activities, such as the Alder River Grange, the East Bethel Church, the East Bethel Cemetery Association, the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society, the Bethel Historical Society and Gould Academy. Mr. Howe is a former selectman from Bethel, a former budget committee member and formerly on the school board. They are very deserving of this recognition.

The Business of the Year Award will be presented to the Unicorn Flower and Garden Center, owner Ann Friedlander. Ann has relocated a former Rte. 2 business to a lovely new location on Rte. 26, Bethel, where she operates a prospering enterprise. Ann is well known in the entire Bethel area and beyond for her lovely flower arranging and landscaping services. She has also been very willing over the years to work with community organizations in their fundraising efforts.

Also being recognized this year for the first time are "Outstanding Employees" of three area businesses.

The Employee of the Year in the wood products category will be presented to Ray Morgan, of Bethel Furniture Stock. Ray has worked for the company for 15 years and is presently the rough mill foreman. Ray and his wife, Mary, have two school aged children. Says company owner Leon Favreau "Ray has been extremely cooperative and willing to learn new things about the mill. He is an asset to our business."

In the Retail and Service Category, the Award will be given to the faithful employee of Maine Line Products, Bethel, Nancy Wight of Newry. Nancy has worked at Maine Line Products for seven years and has grown with the business as it has grown. She is always willing to take on new responsibilities. Owner Rick Whitney, says of her "I am relaxed and confident with Nancy in full charge if I have to be away." She is friendly and helpful to the customers and goes above and beyond to help out. Nancy is the mother of five children and is Past President of Newry's Mother's Club. She is also the ballot clerk for the Town of Newry and has been for several years.

The Chamber will be presenting a Special Award to Dick Penley of Bethel for his many successful and varied business activities, particularly the One Pie Can Company, which has put the name of Bethel in more households in the United States than any other in our area. Dick has been affiliated with the Penley Corporation through his family who have been in the Western Maine area for generations.

Ginger is planning a great program for the evenings entertainment.

Following the program will be a reception for the Awards Recipients featuring a hot and cold hors d'oeuvre buffet called "A Taste of Bethel" A cash bar will be supplied by the Bethel Inn. Many thanks to the Bethel Inn for hosting this great event.

AUCTION FUNDRAISER—Boy Scout Troopmaster Mark Wigley, left, takes a bid at the Congregational Church's auction to raise funds for the church's building projects. Boy Scout Troop 565 meets in the church and helped out during the auction. Dave Murphy, right, was the auctioneer for the day. The auction raised $2,000 for this summer's remodeling project. Renovations are complete in the chapel and dining room. Rev. Jean Bass said, and remodeling of the kitchen closet will be open once a week.

Telstar abuse awareness day

Telstar's high and middle school students took part in a substance abuse awareness day last week.

SAD #44 substance abuse coordinator Rodney Abbott organized the day, which featured 27 workshop leaders discussing a variety of substance abuse topics ranging from increased self-esteem to chemical dependency.

Students spent the entire day attending workshops. Abbott said the students' response has been very positive. They all filled out evaluations of the day and he said some have approached him and said they were helped by the program.

"We had very good response from the kids on their evaluations," Abbott said. "The overwhelming response was positive."

This is the first daylong awareness program the district has held. Abbott said he was hesitant to make awareness the main issue of the district's substance abuse program before the proper support groups and back-up programs where in place to help students deal with a chemical dependency problem once it was recognized.

He added that there have been several assembly programs held regarding chemical dependency awareness. He said, however, that an all day program helped students to "focus in on the topic."

"We want to make people aware of the fact that there are all these problems around the use of chemicals," Abbott said. "But at the same time give them a sense of hope and help that it doesn't have to be that way." Students helped decide the make-up of the program earlier this year by completing a survey of chemical awareness topics of interest to them. Abbott said some of the workshops the students particularly enjoyed included a female bodybuilder who spoke about the dangers involved with athletes' use of steroids, a discussion regarding chemicals and sexuality, and the problems that may result from combining the two—and a workshop on stress reduction.

Abbott said he was surprised by the students reaction to the stress reduction workshop. He said several students have approached him and asked if some kind of follow-up program could be initiated at the school. Besides the "normal stress" of attending school, he said, students bring to school a variety of their own personal problems. "An awful lot of kids in high school have problems relating to chemical dependency also, even if they don't have a problem themselves," he said. Abbott said the district will plan more awareness activities and may even expand the focus to include more than one day's format on the issue. He added that he was grateful to community members who supplied and helped serve refreshments during the day.

Presenters and their topics at the awareness day were: Joanne Madden, drug free athletes; Rev. Konni Wells, co-dependency; Sgt. 1st Class Diane Jahn and Telstar guidance counselor Dan Hart, learning to value yourself; Maureen Pate, chemicals and sex; James Lyman, booze and the law; Karen Hendrickson, stress reduction; Louise Chapman, a friend's use; State Trooper James Corbett, problems on the road; Tim Berger, smoking stinks; Ann Holt, how chemicals effect learning; Jewel Clark, the other side of the bar; Tammy Perry, fetal alcohol syndrome; Chris Cole, smokeless tobacco and its effect; Dr. Dan Donnelly, the effect of alcohol on the body; Marie Hickey, the road to chemical dependency and back; Richard Becker, recovery; and Jan Whitworth, AIDS and you.

Keynote speakers for the day were comedian Randy Judkins, whose self-esteem presentation began the program, and Rick Adam from the Heart of Gold Vaudeville Company, who put together an "awareness act" that ended the middle school program.

Resolutions of Respect

Once more death has entered our ranks and taken from our midst Brother Richard Stevens, a faithful and loved member and worker of our order, and while we mourn the loss of a loyal member we are rejoiced at his freedom from suffering and his entrance into a higher life where sickness and sorrow are no more. Therefore be it resolved: That Alder River Grange extend to the bereaved family and other relatives of our brother our heartfelt sympathy and we point them to our Heavenly Father for comfort in their hour of trial.

Resolved: That these resolutions be placed on our records, that a copy be sent to the family of our brother and one sent to the Bethel Oxford County Citizen for publication and our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days. "I opened the old, old Bible, and looked at a page of Psalms, Till the wintry sea of my troubles was soothed as by summer rains; For the words that have helped so many, and the ages have made more dear, Seemed new in their power to comfort, as they brought me their word of cheer."

Living wills registry established at Stephens Memorial Hospital

As a special service to the Western Maine community, Stephens Memorial Hospital is now accepting living wills from people who wish to have their living will on file within the hospital.

Stephens Memorial Hospital is accepting living wills registration from anyone who wishes to utilize this new service, regardless of whether or not they have ever been a patient at the Norway hospital, or received any of the services it provides.

The purpose of a living will is to ensure that the patient's wishes concerning procedures that prolong the dying process are made known to his or her caregivers and are documented in the patient's medical record. If, due to severe illness or injury which would result in a terminal condition, a patient is unable to communicate his or her wishes concerning their health care, a living will provides instructions for details concerning that individual's health care. In addition to filing a living will with the individual's hospital of choice, he or she should also file a copy with their physician(s).

Anyone wishing to register their living will at Stephens Memorial Hospital can obtain information and living will registration forms by contacting the Social Services Department at Stephens Memorial Hospital, 743-5933, Ext. 378.
